

VEGF stands for vascular endothelial growth factor. It's a fancy name for a kind of growth hormone that is a growth factor for blood vessel cells. Blood vessel cells have receptors for this growth factor on them, and when that happens, the blood vessels are stimulated to grow.